Pixel: Multi-signatures for Consensus

Manu Drijvers, Sergey Gorbanov, Gregory Neven, Hoeteck Wee

Multi-signatures enable a group of signers to jointly generate a short and efficiently verifiable signature on a common message. They are commonly used in proof-of-stake and permissioned blockchains, where reaching consensus usually involves a committee of nodes signing the next block. Adaptive corruptions, however, pose a common threat to such designs, because the adversary can corrupt committee members after they certified a block (and possibly after they sold their stake) and use their signing keys to fork the chain by certifying a different block, thereby undermining the

New Code-Based Privacy-Preserving Cryptographic Constructions

Khao Nguyen, Hạnh Tùng, Huaxiong Wang, Neng Zeng

Code-based cryptography has a long history but did suffer from periods of slow development. The field has recently attracted a lot of attention as one of the major branches of post-quantum cryptography. However, its subfield of privacy-preserving cryptographic constructions is still rather underdeveloped, e.g., important building blocks such as zero-knowledge range proofs and set membership proofs, and even proofs of knowledge of
Open Positions in Cryptology

IACR provides a listing of open positions with a focus on cryptology. To advertise a job opportunity, please use the button to the right.

Submissions should include: organization, title, description, a URL for further information, contact information, and a closing date (which may be "continuous"). The job will be posted for six months or until the closing date. Submissions in other formats than text will not be posted. There can be no attachments.

This is intended to be a free service from an IACR member to the IACR membership. The content of the job posting is the responsibility of the person requesting the posting and not the IACR. Commercial enterprises who want to advertise their openings should identify at least one of their employees who is a member of IACR.

Motivation for the new journal

The field of cryptography is growing → this is a good thing!

Perceived problems

• Increased reviewing load
  • Submission to multiple conferences (high rejection rates)
  • Submission to journal after published at a conference
• Limited number of slots at conference
  • Good papers sometimes rejected because of insufficient reviews, low confidence, etc
  → waste of everybody’s time

Results

• Increased frustration of authors with reviewers, and vice-versa
• Re-submit acceptable papers numerous times
• Papers contain over-hyped claims to impress reviewers to get in
• Students spending travel budgets just to publish a paper
• Traveling for conferences just to publish a paper is bad for the environment, bad for diversity, and a bad use of tax-payer funded research dollars
• Conferences become dull as papers are selected due to publication as opposed to talk criteria
High-Level Goals – IACR Communications in Cryptology

- Diamond or Gold Open Access publishing model
- Fast and consistent turnaround time (decision in 3 months for regular paper)
- Allow for scaling to handle the current (and future) size of the field
- Respect all areas of the community (theory/applied/practice, symmetric/public key/protocols/implementation, geographic area)
- Reduce overall reviewing load for our community
- Allow another outlet for our community to publish without the need to travel to conferences
- Not compete with but complement our successful flagship and area conferences (including the IACR transactions).

Ideology

If a paper contains an original contribution relevant to the field of cryptology, then it should be accepted, irrespective of how many other strong papers are received.
Our goal / expectation at the start for diamond open access: < 100 USD / paper

Is this realistic?

• MSP charges about $32 per page
• American Astronomical Society charges $500/paper
• The American Meteorological Association charges $1100 + $120/page.
• The American Mathematical Society charges $750-$1500 per article for their journals.
• The ACM charges $700-1300 per article for members.
• SIAM charges $2885 per article.
• London Math Society charges $1250 per article for the Transactions
• Springer (Journal of Cryptographic Engineering) charges $2780 per article
New Journal – Practical Challenges

We discussed the requirements with several companies + publishers.

• Step 1. Submission and review system
  • HotCRP, OJS, other systems?

• Step 2. Editorial management system
  • Significant time to check final versions, can we automate more?
    → Currently on average one hour of a PhD students time to process each submitted final version for ToSC/TCHES
  • Extracting + collecting metadata?

• Step 3. Hosting system
  • Ourselves? Use existing solutions?
Next steps

Keep in mind: the goal of the new journal is to complement not replace

→ Extending the reach of the IACR to people who like to publish results without necessarily want to present their work at one of our conferences

Next steps
The Board has agreed in principle to the creation of the New Journal.
Lots of work to be done: hosting, metadata, costs, etc
Alignment with (the steering committees of) JoC + Transactions will take place
Mini-FAQ

• What about the Journal of Cryptology?
  → Still the Journal for the highest-quality papers.
• What about the Transactions?
  → Still considered the top-places for papers in their areas.
    Note: not all areas have dedicated conferences.
• What is the difference to the ePrint Archive?
  → Papers in the journal are fully reviewed and low-quality papers are obviously rejected
  → Again, the New Journal complements it will not replace!
